Nanya Technology Corporation

2023 Business Report

I. 2023 Business Report

(I) Operations:

Nanya Technology Corporation's ("Nanya") consolidated revenue amounted to NT$29.89 billion in 2023, down 47.5% compared with NT$56.95 billion in 2022. The after-tax loss was NT$7.44 billion, representing a net profit margin of -24.9%, or loss per share at NT$2.40.

In 2023, for end-use information products such as servers, data centers, mobile phones, laptops, and more, the momentum of end-demand was weak and inventory adjustment was slow. According to estimates from research institutes, global dynamic memory (DRAM) revenues decreased by approximately 38% compared with that in the previous year, and the average selling price fell by more than 40%.

DRAM manufacturers successively extended production cuts in the first half of 2023 to improve supply-demand imbalances. In the second half of 2023, the demand for related products such as high-bandwidth memory (HBM) and DDR5 grew thanks to the popularity of generative artificial intelligence (AI). This relatively eased the inventory pressure of DDR4/LPDDR4. DRAM prices stopped falling and began to rise gradually in Q4.

The Company adjusted its production and sales strategy in response to market conditions. The annual shipping volume dropped by about a mid-single-digit percentage point compared with that in the previous year. After bottoming out in Q1, quarterly revenue rebounded and gross operating loss improved along with the average selling price improvement and less idle cost charges, among other factors from Q4 and onwards.

(II) Efforts on the Business Side:

1. Business Promotion: Continue to Cultivate Customer Relationships and Diversify Application Fields.

- (1) Consumer electronics products include applications such as TVs, network communications, solid-state drives, and lathes, accounted for approximately 66% of total sales.
- (2) We expanded fields of application for low-power products, such as communication modules, multi-chip packages, and voice assistants and sought long-term contracts. This segment accounted for approximately 17% of total sales.
- (3) We strengthened the sales of server product lines, baseboard management controllers (BMCs), and network interface controllers (NICs). This segment accounted for approximately 3% of total sales.

2. Technology Development:

- (1) The leading product 8Gb DDR4 and follow-up products 16Gb DDR5 and 4Gb DDR4 of the 2nd generation 10nm process technology (1B) have begun trial production in 2023. Another four products are being designed and will be completed successively in 2024 after the trial production.
- (2) Functional testing chips produced using third generation 10-nm process technology (1C) are currently in the trial production phase, and pilot the lead product design is being carried out concurrently.

3. Strengthening Operational Resilience

Facing the sluggish market environment in 2023, we will continue to adjust our product portfolio, implement various cost improvement programs, and enhance our competitiveness.

(1) Inventory Management

- ① We established risk indicators for product inventory, actively managed and disposed of high risk assets, and suspended wafer input, giving priority to products with a longer lifecycle to lower the risk of inventory digestion.
- ② We conducted product portfolio analysis on a rolling basis and dynamically reduced output within 20% in response to market conditions.

(2) Lowering Costs/ Expenses

We improved the efficiency of human resources, reduced expenses, and implemented a variety of conservation plans to reduce operating costs.

4. ESG and Sustainability

- (1) Nanya was once again selected as a constituent stock of the DJSI World Index and DJSI Emerging Markets Index at the end of 2023, ranking first among memory companies worldwide.
- (2) In 2023, we received the highest rating of "A" from the international non-profit organization CDP's climate change and water security questionnaires.
- (3) In 2023, we were ranked among Clarivate's Top 100 Global Innovators for the first time, bearing witness to the achievements in technological innovation and patent strategy as recognized by international evaluation institutions.

- (4) In 2023, we continued to rank among the top 5% in the Corporate Governance Evaluation.
- (5) In 2023, we once again garnered multiple awards, including the Top 10 Taiwanese Companies Sustainability Model Award at the Taiwanese Corporate Sustainability Awards (TCSA), which fully recognizes the company's efforts and achievements in comprehensively implementing ESG work.

II. Industry Outlook

The short-term growth of the DRAM market has been hindered by the impact of the global economic boom and bust cycle, geopolitics, and the China-U.S. trade conflict. However, DRAM is a key component for humans to enter the smart era and intelligentize all electronic products. The development of 5G and AI will continue to drive the growth of DRAM.

DRAM is extensively applied in electronics products. Servers, data centers, personal computers, smartphones, and consumer electronics are currently the largest fields of applications.

Servers shipments have benefited from cloud service providers' heavy investment in AI servers, as well as other corporate clients' increasing purchases of general-purpose servers. Overall server shipments are expected to grow significantly, simultaneously driving growth in shipments of higher-margin HBM and high density DDR5 modules. The server market is expected to continue to improve this year.

The launch of new mobile phone models in the second half of 2023 has strengthened the momentum of demand recovery in China and other emerging markets, sales have already showed signs of recovery in the first quarter of this year, and the percentage accounted for by high-end models has increased. In addition, the amount of installed DRAM continues to increase due to the introduction of AI functions in mobile phones. Therefore, the overall number of mobile phone shipments and DRAM content will increase compared with last year.

In terms of PCs, after two years of decline, the number of shipped units has returned to normal and inventory is expected to resume growth this year thanks to upgrades in software and hardware, which will drive a replacement boom. In addition, with the launch of the AI PC, the amount of installed DRAM is expected to increase simultaneously.

Other consumer electronic products such as TVs and set-top boxes have seen growth with the support of sports events (Olympic Games Paris 2024 and the UEFA European Football Championship). Networking has benefited from the launch of WiFi7, enhancing its growth momentum. Furthermore, industrial control and automotive demand are in a relatively healthy state. Overall, growth of consumer electronics products are expected to get back on track.

Based on the above, DRAM shipments to end application market segments, such as servers, mobile phones and laptops, are expected to show growth this year. On the supply side, the three major suppliers are expected to gradually restore capacity utilization and invest in equipments to remove the HBM production bottleneck, so as to increase the proportion of high-margin products such as HBM and DDR5. The increase in the output of conventional products might be limited. Therefore, the average selling price in the overall market is likely to show a gradual upward trend due to the growth of end demand and the improvement of product mix. However, the recovery of market demand continues to be affected by geopolitics and regional economies.

III. 2024 Business Plan

In 2024, in addition to promoting the existing products, the existing product portfolio will be optimized and the proportion of low-power products will be increased to improve the average unit selling prices.

In terms of new products, the focus this year is to successively launch three new products mass-produced using the 1B process technology and expand the product line to contribute to revenues. We also plan to migrate to more production capacity of 1B process technology in the second half of the year and gradually replace part of the 20nm production capacity.

In addition, in order to strengthen the Company's long-term competitiveness, this year's plan is to complete the design of the first product of the 1C process and begin its pilot production in existing facilities. Construction of the new fab will be carried out according to schedule, and will install process equipment based on market demand starting in 2026.

(I) Business Promotion

1. We will continue to cultivate customers and introduce projects in response to new demands, stabilize 20-nm and 30-nm product sales, and increase sales in digital TV, networking, digital camera, KGD, and SSD applications.
2. Increase market share in applications such as digital cameras, multi-chip packaging, and embedded stacked chip packaging to enhance the comprehensiveness of low-power product supply. In addition, we will increase the proportion of 20nm low-power products, as well as enhance the sales volume of LPDDR4/4X products to expand automotive, voice assistant, handheld devices, high-end TV, and other applications.

3. In terms of server product sales, we strive to secure orders for DDR4 in server modules from large cloud service providers and develop the consumer market for small and medium-sized customers in regional data centers, baseboard management controllers (BMC), network interface controllers (NIC), and other application fields.
4. New products mass-produced by the 1B process will be the focus of this year's expansion. In addition to promoting 8Gb/4Gb DDR4 to personal computers and Known Good Die application markets, 16Gb DDR5 will be prioritized making achievements in mainstream markets such as personal computers and server applications.

(II) Technology Development

1. Currently, three products of the 10nm 2nd generation (1B) process technology are in trial production, with four products in design and development, including a shrink version of 16Gb DDR5, 16Gb LPDDR4, 16Gb LPDDR5, and 4Gb DDR3, which will also gradually enter trial production.
2. This year, through-silicon via (TSV) process technology will be developed concurrently. In the future, the DDR5 shrink version and TSV process will be combined to create high-density DRAM modules to meet the needs of the server market.
3. The first product (16Gb DDR5) using 10nm 3rd generation (1C) process technology is expected to be designed by the end of the year and enter trial production early next year.

(III) Capital Expenditures

In 2024, in response to the migration of part of the existing facility capacity to 1B process technology, general department capital expenditures, and new facility construction expenditures, the upper limit is expected to be set at NT$26 billion. The budget for production related equipment will be slightly below 50%.

IV. Conclusion

Looking forward this year, the DRAM market is expected to maintain a steady recovery. Nanya insists on "technology innovation" as the Company's core value and main growth momentum, and will invest even more resources to accelerate the development of 10-nm process technologies and more new generation DDR5 products to enhance our competitiveness. We will dedicate our efforts to creating more value for shareholders, and will fulfill our corporate social responsibility to achieve sustainable development.

We are independent of the Group in accordance with The Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis of our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

1. Revenue Recognition:

Please refer to Notes 4(n) and Notes 6(q) for details on accounting policy and disclosure on relevant information, respectively.

The revenue of the Group mainly comes from sales of DRAM. Since the amount of customer and transaction is massive and revenue recognition is considered as a great concern by the users and receivers of the financial statements, the test on revenue recognition is regarded as one of our key audit matters.

The principal audit procedures performed by the auditor for the above key audit matters include analyzing the sales transactions with the top ten customers, particularly those related parties with significant transaction amounts, and reviewing significant new contracts to understand the contract terms to ensure there are no major abnormalities. The auditor also evaluates the reasonableness of accounting treatments for revenue recognition (including sales allowances and returns), assesses the effectiveness of internal control system design and implementation for revenue, and reviews customer delivery terms. Additionally, the auditor tests sales samples for a period before and after the year end to assess the accuracy of the timing of revenue recognition.

2. Valuation of inventories

Please refer to Notes 4(h), 5, as well as 6(e) for details on accounting policy, judgments and major sources of estimation uncertainty, as well as disclosure on information about inventory valuation, respectively.

The Group recognizes a loss from the devaluation of inventories on a quarterly basis based on the lower of cost or net realizable value method. The international market price of DRAM has significantly affected the net realizable value of inventories. Therefore, the evaluation of inventory has been identified as a key audit matter in the consolidated financial statements.

The principal audit procedures performed to address the aforementioned key audit matter included understanding the basis adopted by the management in the estimate of net realizable value, and sampling to test the reasonableness of the net realizable value.

Other Matter

The company has prepared its parent-company-only financial statements as of and for the years ended December 31, 2023 and 2022, on which we have issued an unmodified opinion.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Consolidated Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and IFRSs, IASs, IFRIC, SIC endorsed and issued into effect by the Financial Supervisory Commission of the Republic of China, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance (including the Audit Committee) are responsible for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
6. Obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the group audit. Furthermore, we remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

The engagement partners on the audit resulting in this independent auditors' report are Kuo, Hsin-Yi and Lee, Tzu-Hui.
